Miguel Ángel Morell Fuentes
Senior Vice President and Head of Operations
Airbus Military

Miguel Ángel Morell was appointed Senior Vice President (SVP) Head of Operations of Airbus Military in May 2013. Airbus Military products include the former CASA military transport aircraft CN235, C295, and C212, the A400M programme, as well as all military derivatives of Airbus aircraft which include the A330 MRTT. As Head of Operations, he is in charge of the on-time, on-quality, on-cost manufacturing and assembly of the Airbus Military products and platforms, including the related supporting information services. Additionally, he is responsible for the definition of the global supply chain strategy and optimization of its efficiency and effectiveness whilst ensuring effective make-or-buy and logistics processes. Before taking this position, he was SVP Head of Engineering and Technology of Airbus Military.

Miguel Ángel Morell joined the former Construcciones Aeronáuticas, S.A. (CASA) 30 years ago, in 1983, as a stress engineer, after completing his academic training as an aeronautical engineer at the Technical University of Madrid and obtaining his Master of Business Administration (MBA) degree. In his first years at the company, he took up posts in Madrid and Ottobrunn working on composite structures, specifically fatigue testing. He developed his career in the company mainly in the engineering division, working on national and international projects including Airbus and Eurofighter.

In 1998, he was appointed Head of Structural Analysis and subsequently took up the position of Director of Structures and Design in 2000, leading the Royal Australian Air Force's MRTT (Multi-Role Tanker Transport) programme until 2007. In 2007, he became Director of the Derivatives programmes, with full responsibility for developing the United Kingdom's A330 MRTT/FSTA (Future Strategic Tanker Aircraft) project. He took up the position of Head of Engineering and Technology in 2009.

Miguel Ángel was born in June 1958. He is married and has two daughters. Miguel is an outdoor-sport person passionate about speleology, hiking, skiing and diving.
